

Waveland names Varnell police chief in '92

BY JACQUI COCHRAN
The Waveland Board of Aldermen approved the appointment of police department chief investigator James Varnell to the position of police chief, effective January 1, 1992.

The board was informed by Mayor Stella Frilot that police chief Donald Dorn notified her of his intent to retire December 31, 1991. Dorn will have been with the department for 25 years.

The packed meeting room broke into applause of congratulations for the young investigator.

The board played the role of arbitrator during three separate occasions Tuesday.

New York Street from Henderson to Fay

Streets was abandoned by the city in an attempt for area residents to settle a usage dispute.

Calvin Dean requested the city open the street, so he could use it for access to his property.

City attorney Lucien Gex said he had researched the street and found it had been planned in 1897 but had never been opened.

Gex said there were many such streets throughout the city, and stressed the need for the city to justify the expense of opening and maintaining the street for one man's access.

Ward 1 alderman Barbara Rappold asked Dean why he could not make a road through other property he owned which opened onto Hope Street.

Dean said he intended to sell the property facing Hope Street to finance the building of a home on the New York Street stretch.

Rappold suggested he keep a section of the Hope Street property for a drive through to his intended new home.

The board voted to abandon the street, dividing ownership of the strip of land between the various land owners to either side.

Warren Mosley, regional manager and vice-president of Multivision Cable Television, defended various complaints about his company's service.

Waveland resident and proponent of competitive cable service, John Lange, questioned Mosley at length about promises made for expanded service.

Mosley claimed the age of the equipment and the need to update the Waveland facility was causing a delay in channel expansion and numerous reception difficulties.

"The system is old," Mosley stated. "I can't build the whole thing over this year."

"I am here to say I have spent $47,000 to $60,000 in the last six months. We are writing

Nine races contested in Tuesday election

BY TRACI BONNEY
Local voters face only a handful of decisions in the October 8 runoff election.

On the Republican ballot, only one race remains contested, that of governor. Businessman Kirk Fordice (#6) and State Auditor Pete Johnson (#8) are vying for an opportunity to oust incumbent Governor Ray Mabus, a Democrat.

On the Democratic ticket, Ryan Hood (#20) and Steven A. "Steve" Patterson (#26) both want to fill Johnson's post as state auditor, while Sidney Barnett (#39) and Stephen "Steve" Hale (#43) face off in a bid for public service commissioner, Southern District.

In local races, incumbent Terrell "Terry" Randolph (#93) and challenger Myrna Bourgeois (#77) enter the last phase of a county schools superintendent's race marred by vote count errors; and three incumbent supervisors will vie with challengers to move on to the November 5 general election.

In District 2, Supervisor Ronald E. Cuevas (#99) faces challenger Alton A. "Dolph" Kellar (#103), who garnered more votes than Cuevas in the September 17 primary.

In District 3, incumbent Lisa LeBon Cowand (#115) squares off against Howard Lizana (#117). In District 5, Supervisor Michael "Mike" Ladner (#142) faces Barney R. Necaise (#148).

The winners of the District 2 and 5 races will go on to the November general election, while the District 3 runoff winner will become the next supervisor.

In other state races, Herb Frierson (#191) and Duane Wheat (#199) are vying for state representative District #106, while Richard A. Cowart (#203) and Ezell Lee (#205) face off for state senator District #47.

Deadline for voter registration for the November general election is Saturday, October 5.

Hancock unemployment rate remains below state average

BY TRACI BONNEY
While the unemployment rate for Hancock County rose 0.1 percent from July to August, the county rate of 6.8 percent remained well below the state average of 8.7 percent for August, according to statistics from the Mississippi Employment Security Commission.

Ranked eighth in the state, Hancock County has the lowest unemployment rate on the Gulf Coast. Harrison and Jackson counties also are below the state average at 7.0 and 7.5 percent, while Pearl River County's rate exceeds the state average at 9.3 percent.

The overall rate for Mississippi fell 0.8 percent from July to August, according to MESC. The areas of largest gain in employment were education, establishment-based and manufacturing.

Non-manufacturing jobs showed a drop in employment in August from July.

Area schools to celebrate National drug-free week

BY ELLIS CUEVAS
Public and private schools located in the Bay-Waveland School District will celebrate Red Ribbon Week, a national anti-drug campaign October 19-27.

Melissa Johnson, drug education coordinator for the public and private schools in the Bay-Waveland area, said the project would include students from kindergarten through 12th grades.

The purpose of the Red Ribbon campaign is to present a unified and visible commitment toward the creation of a Drug Free America by:

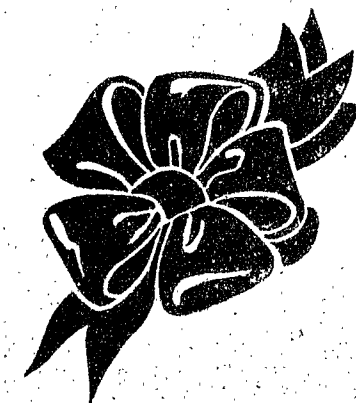

- Creating awareness concerning alcohol and other drug problems facing every community;
- Building community coalitions to implement drug prevention strategies;
- Supporting healthy, drug-free lifestyles; and
- Encouraging neighborhood prevention planning and activities.

Each school in the district will be doing several projects of participation for Red Ribbon Week.

The Hancock County Retired

Senior Volunteer Program (RSVP), will be assisting in several phases of the special week.

All students of the schools will be asked to wear a strip of red ribbon, to promote awareness of the anti-drug week.

Bay High's Students Against Driving Drunk (SADD), will contact local merchants and ask them to display special red ribbons in their respective business establishments during the week.

Sixth graders from St. Stanislaus, fifth and sixth graders from Bay Middle, Bay Catholic, and Coast Elementary schools compete in poster contests sponsored by the Hancock Lions Club.

North Bay, Waveland Elementary, Bay Catholic, St. Clare, Coast Elementary and Bay Middle schools will be participating by having students draw "Say No to Drugs" messages on grocery bags.

Bay man killed in New Orleans

BY JACQUI COCHRAN
John Gagliano, chief investigator with the New Orleans coroner's office reported, William L. Carter Jr., 35, of Bay St. Louis, died after being shot outside of a grocery store near the St. Thomas Project Saturday in uptown New Orleans.

"It seemed Carter was shot near a corner grocery store on Chippewa and Josephine Streets," Gagliano stated.

New Orleans Police Department (NOPD) Homicide Detective Anthony Caprera stated

Carter was accompanied by his brother, Ronald Carter, who claimed the two men were in New Orleans to visit with relatives.

NOPD Sgt. Marlon Defillo stated, Ronald Carter, told police he waited in the car while his brother entered the grocery and upon leaving was confronted by a man who shot him several times and then fled into the projects. No one else was injured.

Caprera said the incident was still under investigation and was unable at this time to release any information as to motive involved.

Gagliano said Carter was shot in the chest and legs. The bullet which entered his chest, went directly through his heart and lung. The shooting was reported at 10 a.m. and Carter was reported dead at 11:45 a.m.

According to Caprera, Carter was rushed to Charity Hospital via an emergency ambulance service. Carter died following arrival at the hospital.

Henderson appointed United Way 2nd vice chair

BY TRACI BONNEY
Experience with United Way and belief in its purpose — those two things make Don Henderson proud to be named second vice chairman of the local chapter's 1991 campaign.

Henderson, who has served as administrator at Hancock Medical Center for slightly more than a year now, was named second vice chairman for United Way of Hancock County last week.

He remarked, "It's quite an honor and I'm very pleased to have been selected. It will be a couple of years until I assume a leadership position, but in the meantime I'll try to help out Mike (Haas Jr., campaign chairman) and A.C. (Adam, first vice chairman) as best I can."

Henderson's other community involvement includes membership on the board of directors of the Hancock County Chamber of Commerce and at Diamondhead Community Church.

He and his wife Dinah have a 16-month-old daughter, Laura. They live in Diamondhead.

By Ellis C. Cuevas

Once again Friday night will be football night in Hancock County with local teams at home.

An interesting game in several ways will be the one between St. Stanislaus Rock-A-Chaws and the Picayune Maroon Tide.

I cannot recall of the two vying in a high school football game.

Picayune has been playing in a very tough Class 5-A division and this year they have dropped down to Class 4-A.

This will be Picayune's first conference game as a Class 4-A school.

And to top it all off, Picayune's head coach Nathaniel Fairconnetue is from Bay St. Louis and Jerry Spell, St. Stanislaus' athletic director, is from Picayune.

Stanislaus is 4-0 for the season and 2-0 in conference play, while Picayune is 1-2 for season with losses to a strong Ocean Springs and Slidell High School.

Ken Lyons should have the Rocks ready for Picayune, and I am thinking he will have to have the same performance as he had against Gulfport to remain undefeated.

Picayune has a young team, a freshman quarterback, but for years they have been doing battle against Class 5-A schools.

I know Fairconnetue would like to take a victory to his new home in Picayune and it should be an interesting contest.

Hancock High's Hawks seem to be getting things together and are fresh from a victory over St. Martin's Yellow Jackets last Friday.

Hancock this week will host the D'Iberville Warriors at Hawk stadium and this game will tell just how good Hancock is this season.

D'Iberville's power dropped for a few years, but is now rebuilding their football team and Hancock will really have to get after them, if they want this conference victory.

Having the home field may help the Hawks a bit this week.

Rocky Gaudin, Bay High head coach, and his young Tigers will be hosting Purvis Friday night in a conference 3-A game.

The Tigers could win this game with flawless play and a few 'good' bounces of the ball.

Remember, games start at 7:30 p.m. and I would suggest getting their early this week. Your team needs your support in the stands.

I hope to see you at the game Friday night.

The annual Our Lady Academy's International Food Fest and Fish Fry is scheduled for this weekend.

The fest has been very popular in previous years and I know it means there will be food from all nationalities available.

There will be arts and crafts booths and live entertainment.

A fish fry will be held Friday starting at 5:30 p.m.

The Food Fest hours are scheduled from noon Saturday until 11 p.m. and Sunday, noon until 6 p.m.

Live entertainment will include Bo & Dee Friday 7 to 9 p.m. and also Sunday 2 to 5 p.m., and The Passport, 6:30 to 10:30 p.m. Saturday.

It sounds like this will be another fun filled weekend for the area.

The fest will be held on the school's grounds next to Our Lady of the Gulf Catholic Church, Beach Boulevard, Bay St. Louis.

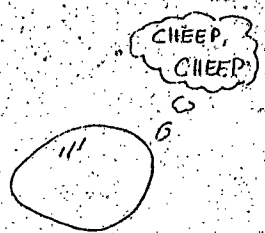

I plan on getting my supper from the fish fry before the game Friday night.

I hope to see you at the fest too!

Trout, redfish size limits need to be revised

To the Editor:

In regard to the size limit on trout and redfish, I think we should release redfish over 22" and keep the small ones because only the larger fish have roe.

We should release trout over 18" because they have a better chance of surviving hooking and handling.

We will not only be keeping the better eating fish, but releasing the most prolific propagators. Also, the smaller fish are less likely to be full of worms.

Sincerely,

City fails to repair broken water fountain

To the Editor:

All summer long I brought my two children to the City Park playground, and all summer long it was virtually impossible to use the park's drinking fountain.

This condition was brought to the attention of the mayor's office. No action has been taken to correct the situation.

So, it is possible that the city's water works crew lack the skills to adjust the water pressure on a simple water fountain?

Farmers receive good news

Last week, farmers in Lamar, Wayne, George, Pearl River, Perry, Jackson, Harrison, Hancock, Forrest and Stone counties received some long awaited news from the Small Business Administration (SBA).

The administration announced that Mississippi Farm Fresh Produce, located in Wiggins, has been awarded a badly needed economic disaster loan.

The loan, in the amount of $104,400, comes at a time when farmers in South Mississippi need it most. Devastated by heavy rains one year and drought the next, the produce farmers, along with a group of city and county leaders, have been working diligently to keep the produce shed alive.

Even though the produce shed has run into a few hurdles during its short two-year life span, the program is working. Last summer the shed employed 37 packers and 200 pickers. Gross sales topped $300,000.

The whole idea behind the concept has allowed farmers the opportunity to diversify their crops. For decades Mississippi farmers have been dependent on soybeans, corn and wheat. However, Mississippi Farm Fresh Produce's warehouse and freezer in Wiggins allows farmers within a 200 mile radius the opportunity to grow high intensity crops, such as cucumbers, cabbage and bell peppers. The produce is collected, packaged and stored, if needed, at the facility and then later shipped by refrigerator trucks all over the country.

This is the first time the small family owned Mississippi farm has had the opportunity to compete with large high intensity farms in other parts of the country. With dozens of South Mississippi farmers working together and bringing produce to a central location for shipping, we can compete on a national scale.

A good bell pepper growing season will net farmers nearly $1,200 an acre. Such high yields can save many of South Mississippi's small 300- to 400-acre family farms from going bankrupt.

I believe we can save many of our small family farms with this ingenious idea. Stone County, Wiggins and state officials are optimistic that within the next five years the produce shed will gross more than $1 million dollars yearly for local farmers.

Finally, we want to give our farmers every opportunity to make the most profit that they possibly can. The produce shed gives South Mississippi farmers the option to market their produce without a middleman dipping into profits.

I feel that this project is working out well and it's great to see that the hard work coordinated at the state and local level is paying off.

EYES ON MISSISSIPPI

Possibly 'crossover' votes in Republican runoff

That seldom-heard word in Mississippi Republican primaries, the "crossover" voter, may hang very heavily over the outcome of the GOP gubernatorial runoff Oct. 8 between Kirk Fordice and Pete Johnson.

In this instance, it's the possibility that a lot of the Democratic voters who cast their ballots in the Sept. 17 Democratic primary now could attempt to cross over and vote in the Republican second primary to influence the outcome of the Fordice-Johnson race.

Secretary of State Dick Mopus warns it's not legal to vote in one party's first primary and then vote in the second primary of the other. Or, to put it another way, you're not supposed to be able to do it, and your vote can be challenged and thrown out if you try.

The point here, however, is that the crossover vote must be challenged at the time it is cast, or attempted to be cast. Otherwise, it can go into the vote tally and nobody would know the difference unless a candidate later contested the election.

The threat of a crossover voter invasion in the past has always been the other way around—Republicans going from the GOP first primary into a Democratic second primary to tilt the outcome toward an easier candidate for the Republicans to beat in the general election.

It may be recalled that the GOP crossover infiltration in Alabama's 1986 Democratic gubernatorial runoff caused such a brou-ha-ha among Democrats that Alabama wound up electing unknown Republican Guy Hunt as its governor.

Since there is no Democratic gubernatorial runoff in Mississippi for the first time since 1947, and only one statewide Democratic runoff—the race for state Auditor—there will be an awful lot of Democrats who voted Sept. 17 who won't be voting on Oct. 8 unless somehow they can slip in and vote in the GOP gubernatorial runoff.

Whether or not they could—or would—do that will depend on how much incentive they have to vote for either Fordice or Johnson, and the degree to which local Republican Party committees go to see that crossovers are screened out.

Unless the GOP poll workers are furnished the Democratic voting lists from the Sept. 17 primary, there wouldn't hardly be any way for them to know who had voted Democratic before and who hadn't voted at all. (If you hadn't voted in either first primary, you CAN vote in either party's second primary, provided you were registered to vote.)

Significantly, some Republican legal researchers in the past have maintained they don't find anything legally wrong with crossover voting in another primary held on a different day.

It is known that the Johnson forces had hoped to attract many erstwhile Democrats who still share a loyalty to the Johnson name from the days of Gov. Paul B. Johnson, Jr. and Gov. Johnson, Sr., to vote for Pete, the family scion, in the Sept. 17 GOP primary.

But Johnson's far-less-than-expected vote total indicated the old Johnson loyalists opted in large numbers to vote Democratic so they could cast ballots for sheriff and supervisor in local Democratic races. Now a good many of those local races have been decided.

Johnson's best chance of overtaking Fordice and winning the runoff appears to be in pulling in several thousand voters who did not participate in Sept. 17's GOP primary, rather than counting on any sizable number of third-place finisher Bobby Clanton's vote to come over to him. It was quite apparent to almost everyone that the Clanton endorsement of Johnson was a quid pro quo for picking up Clanton's campaign debt.

It's not at all inconceivable that the Johnson camp, which has been feverishly working to keep Johnson's gubernatorial hopes alive, will be quietly soliciting crossover votes to help save their man.

Logically, it could be expected that the record 63,000-vote turnout for the Sept. 17 Republican gubernatorial primary will drop off 10 to 20 percent in the second, and that would be to Fordice's advantage.

If you see the runoff total eclipse the 63,000 mark, you might guess where a lot of those extra votes came from.

Defense funding bill includes $5.4 billion for Miss.

A U.S. Senate panel has approved a bill providing $5.4 billion for Department of Defense programs and activities in Mississippi, U.S. Senator Thad Cochran said.

Cochran, a member of the Defense Appropriations subcommittee, said the level of Fiscal Year 1992 defense spending in Mississippi is higher than last year.

"Defense spending contributes substantially to the economy of Mississippi," Cochran said following the panel's meeting.

"Our action today means more jobs for Mississippi," he added.

Among the major items of interest in the Fiscal Year 1992 bill are the following:

—Guided Missile Destroyers: $4.1 billion for five ships. Ingalls Shipbuilding Company at Pascagoula is one of two shipyards that builds these ships.

—C-130 Aircraft: The bill contains more than $1 billion for a total of 30 aircraft, which are manufactured in part at the Lockheed plant in Meridian, and —Mark 48 ADCAP Torpedo: $295.5 million for 108 torpedoes. Hughes Aircraft Mississippi, at Forest, is one of two producers of these modern torpedoes.

Funding for Air Force and Navy pilot training programs, research activities, and the Mississippi National Guard was also approved, Cochran said.

The bill also contains language directing the Air Force to maintain the hurricane reconnaissance fleet at Keesler Air Force Base in Biloxi, as well as language prohibiting the Navy from precluding U.S. shipyards from building diesel submarines for allies. Ingalls Shipbuilding officials have expressed interest in such shipbuilding activities with U.S. allies, Cochran noted.

The full Senate is expected to consider the $270 billion bill to fund the nation's defense systems early next week.

Do you feel the federal user fees mandated for recreational boats to be fair?

"It makes sense to me since boat owners use Coast Guard services, they should pay more of the burden of the cost."

Ray Glenn Waveland

"I think there should be a fee, but the present fees are a little bit too high for the boat owners."

Clarine Lizana Bay St. Louis

"No, I think it is quite arbitrary. The length of the boat is established at 16 feet. I have a small aluminum hull that is just over that measurement so I must pay $25."

Jack Hasling Waveland

"No, not really. It seems like they are penalizing the people who have boats, and that's not fair."

Todd McCoy Gulfport

"I don't think it's fair, because there are already enough fees being paid by the boat owners."

Kim Lafontaine Bay St. Louis

"No, I don't. It is just a way for them to get more money from the taxpayers. They are making it difficult for people to participate in any sport."

$20,000 a month in bill adjustments for service disruptions. "I don't want you to think we are not making an effort."

Friol interrupted the questioning of Mosley by Lange saying, "The city of Waveland can not tell this man how to run his business. We do not have the authority to interfere in private business. Multivision has not violated its franchise with the city."

Lange asked why the city would not allow another cable television company a franchise with the city at this time.

Friol said she strongly opposed allowing another company a franchise at this time for fear of market saturation.

Seven residents voiced concerns over a zoning and planning commission refusal to change the 600 block of Faith Street from commercial usage to light industrial usage.

Charlie Johnson, owner of a mini warehouse facility, requested the zoning change and surrounding residents objected for fear of more street damage by heavy truck usage and possible property devaluation.

The parties speaking to the board all expressed a desire to reach a compromise in a neighborly fashion.

The mayor suggested the concerned parties meet in a workshop situation after the city attorney is given time to compose a resolution in which each concern is addressed.

The specific zoning and planning recommendation concerning the Faith Street location was tabled by the board and the remaining recommendations were accepted.

Idlewood resident Joseph Albe appeared before the board and asked that a date be set as to when Idlewood drainage repairs would be made.

He said, since the budget for 1992 includes the $15,000 needed for the drainage repairs, he wished to know when they would be started since residents there "would not tolerate another year as the last."

Friol told Albe from various news reports people may have the impression Idlewood residents have suffered water in their homes, which they have not.

She added, though the street flooding in Idlewood merits correction, there were residents in Waveland who sustained water damage in their homes and these people were to receive first consideration.

"I can not tell you an exact date of when the work in Idlewood will be done, I can only tell you that it will be done."

Rappold addressed Albe, saying the money was in the budget for this fiscal year, so the work would be completed by the end of this fiscal year (September 30, 1992).

The board refused the request of developer Nicholas Haas to accept possession of a private street which runs along side Highway 90 from Lil'Ray's Restaurant to Our Shopping Center.

Haas reminded the board of all of the years he has cooperated with the city, and that a city lift station was located on his property.

The board chose to refuse the street citing the cost of repairs and maintenance as their reasoning.

The board agreed to pay $60 for the city's purchasing agent, assistant purchasing agent and bookkeeper to attend a municipal purchasing seminar this month after Ward 4 alderman Stan Weidman questioned the need for two purchasing agents.

Weidman said Bay St. Louis and the county have only one purchasing agent, and questioned the mayor on the size of her administrative staff.

Bay St. Louis pays $30,600 a year for a purchasing agent and warehouse foreman or inventory control assistant; the county pays $36,900 yearly for a purchasing clerk, assistant purchasing clerk and inventory control foreman; and Waveland pays $24,000 a year for a purchasing clerk and assistant purchasing clerk.

In other business: —the board approved, upon verification with the police department, to accept the lowest of two bids for one complete high band radio system;

—the board approved the purchase of two new pumps for the Marcus Drive lift station (#11);

—the board approved to contribute $500 to the Bay-Waveland Football League for advertisement of the city; —and, the board approved the reappointment of Helen Hargett as commissioner of the Waveland Housing Authority, effective October 21, 1991.

Two vehicle fires reported over weekend

BY TRACI BONNEY
Diamondhead Fire Department employees were kept busy over the weekend with two vehicle fires, according to Diamondhead fire chief Dennis Westbrook.

Westbrook said the first fire occurred around 3:41 p.m. Saturday at the Interstate 10 bridge over the Jourdan River. A pickup truck was aflame and had to be extinguished by firefighters when they arrived.

Some towels, clothes and papers were damaged, but no injuries resulted, he added.

The second fire was at 3:55 p.m. Sunday at the new Waffles restaurant on Hwy. 603. By the time firefighters arrived, the fire had been extinguished by a restaurant employee. Again, no injuries resulted.

SHOOTING

Bay St. Louis Police Investigator David Parker reported the arrest Tuesday of two men stationed at the Navy Seabee base in Gulfport in connection with a shooting in Bay St. Louis.

Parker said the shooting occurred at the corner of Sycamore and St. Francis streets Tuesday about 6 p.m., when two men shot into a crowd from a vehicle. They struck one man, Wilbert Fairconature of 514 Booker Street. He was transported by Mobile Medic to Hancock Medical Center, where he was treated and released.

Witnesses said the two men were traveling in a dark blue Volkswagen Jetta with "DEE" on the rear roof quarter panel. The information was dispatched to the Pass Christian Police Department, where the men were apprehended by Pass Christian Police Officer William Stewart.

The men were taken back to the Bay St. Louis Police Department, where they were arrested and charged with aggravated assault.

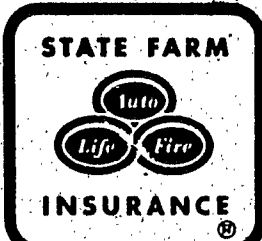

Arrested were David Harold Price, 22, of Odessa, Texas, and Robert Cook, 21, of Newark, N.J. Both were incarcerated at the Hancock County jail under bonds of $20,000 each at the time of the report.

Officers Joe Kepfer, E.J. Favre, Sgt. David Sellier assisted on the case. Detective Tom Burleson is in charge.

COOKING UP A STORM

By Katy McGuire Caire

Ever since the early Indians along our country's coastal areas searched the reefs where oysters grew, the succulent, superb oyster has been one of America's favorite foods.

One of the earliest signs of man in the Mississippi Valley and along the Gulf Coast are Indian Mounds, or middens, some of them consisting solely of oyster shells. And, oysters were the mainstay of early settlers in coastal areas, as soon as they learned about this delicacy by watching the Indians feasting on roasted oysters.

Probably no one really knows just how long oysters have been delighting the palate, but it is a matter of record that oysters were cultivated in China long before the Christian era and were eaten in Europe as far back as the Stone Age; for, piles of shells have been found mixed in with stone-age tools!

And, all this talk of oysters brings to mind one of my earliest and tastiest of memories—the Oyster Loaf (often called the Poor Boy) and known in New Orleans of earlier times as "La Mediatrice"—the "Peacemaker."

There's an old tale to the effect that Creole gentlemen of long ago, after a night at the gaming tables or in the French Quarter or elsewhere would stop in at one of the many oyster places to pick up a delicious Oyster Loaf as a peace offering to a wife weary of awaiting her tardy spouse's homecoming. Who could stay angry when faced with a loaf of (hopefully) still warm French bread dripping butter and filled with crisp fried oysters? And a touch of hot pepper sauce!

One of my earliest memories is the "first oyster loaf" of the season (in those "olden days" of my childhood, oysters were not generally eaten much in months without an "R," and to me, oysters are still better and plumper in those months).

I well remember being waked from sleep, along with my brothers and sister, to see my parents, just home from a party, laughingly saying, "Off with the rules" as they treated us to the oyster loaves they'd brought home. I don't recall my father bringing home a "Peacemaker" by himself after an evening out—the romance evidently lasted well into their late eighties, until my father's death! So, here's:

"LA MEDIATRICE"—THE PEACEMAKER (For each 2 servings)

1 1/2 to 2 dozen oysters, well drained
1/2 cup yellow cornmeal
Dash black pepper (1/4 tsp.)
Cayenne pepper as desired
Oil for frying
1 loaf French bread
3 or more Tblsp. melted butter
Tabasco, optional but required for me (Lettuce, tomato, catsup and such are also optional, but "sinful" in a true oyster loaf)

Lemon wedges
Combine the meal and seasonings, and roll each oyster in the mixture, coating evenly. Fry in hot oil (375 degrees) for just a minute or two, until golden brown, then, drain on paper towels.

Meanwhile, split the bread lengthwise and brush with melted butter, with a heavy hand, please, and warm a bit in a moderate oven. Pile the oysters on the bottom half, squeeze lemon over, top with the half, and enjoy!

Another version of the oyster loaf (one of my Dad's favorites) is that made at Casamento's Restaurant on Magazine Street in New Orleans using a home-baked pan loaf—thick, thick, square slices of bread. And, I sometimes make "Minis" on small French rolls as an appetizer—tasty!

Sweet potato yield looks good in state

The new harvest season for sweet potatoes is underway in Mississippi. New crop potatoes are in the stores throughout our state. Yields so far look promising, and the outlook is good for an abundant crop of potatoes.

The Beauregard has become the top selling sweet potato variety in Mississippi. This new variety is an orange flesh, moist variety with good flavor. Centennial, Jewel and Nancy Hall make up the rest of the crop.

Sweet potatoes are one of the most versatile vegetables available in your produce section. They can be used in pies, breads, salads, and are great just baked served hot with butter.

Sweet potatoes are good for you, too. They contain complex carbohydrates, beta carotene (which may help prevent cancer), and are fat and cholesterol free. They are also low in sodium and calories. High levels of Vitamin A and C are present as well as significant levels of Vitamin B2 and B3, iron, calcium and fiber.

And all of this good nutrition is available at a very reasonable price.

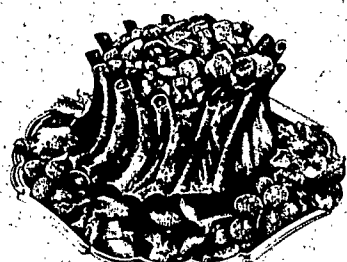

For more sweet potato information contact Benny Graves, Mississippi Sweet Potato Council, P.O. Box 5207, Mississippi State, MS 39762, telephone 325-7773.

Regional artists, craftsmen, antique dealers and musicians will highlight Bogalusa's "Festival in the Park," Saturday and Sunday, Oct. 5 and 6, at Cassidy Park in Bogalusa.

This is the fifth annual festival, and it continues to grow bigger and better each year.

A variety of art works, hand-

There will be children's activities, including a 12-ride carnival adjacent to the park, a dunking booth, commercial

Delbert McClinton, Texas-raised singer, songwriter, band leader, classic blues/rock singer, harp-player (listed in the Rock Book of Lists as one of the 20 best harmonica players in the world), and stand-out ballad singer combining rock, R & B, and country for over 30 years, will be the festival's headliner on Sunday.

Participants from Louisiana, Mississippi, Florida and California have reserved booth space for the festival. Some spaces are still available.

For arts/crafts and commercial booths, spaces start at $45; for food booths, prices start at $200. Anyone interested in securing booth space should contact the Bogalusa Chamber of Commerce at 608 Willis Avenue, Bogalusa, LA 70427, or call (504) 735-5731.

BACK TO NATURE

Do not remove hummingbird feeders; they may aid migration

BY LYDIA D. SCHULTZ

The yard looks barren at first glance. Not much bird activity at all. As I glance around I can see and feel that Fall is definitely here. One of my greatest anticipations:

The Pineapple Sage is in full bloom. A sure sign of Fall. As it and the Shrimp Plant compete for one's attention, my thoughts roam to Western Hummingbirds. I can only hope that they'll do their jobs as well this year as in years gone by.

Those are my thoughts as just behind me Ruby-throated Hummers compete in their aerodynamic whirls and buzzes. It's not that I don't appreciate them. It's just that there's nothing like a hummer on a cold winter day!

Then the chips and clicks draw my eyes to the tops of pines: Brown-headed Nuthatches are never far from my yard. And a Blue-gray Gnatcatcher draws nearer to the fountain. The yard that looked always elusive. The birds don't always wait. I wonder what enters my yard when I'm gone. I just hope each that comes gets enough clean water and nourishment.

It's amazing. This time of the year I continue to get the same questions. Should I take my hummingbird feeder down? The statement I hate the worst is, "I took my feeder down just like Uncle Harry said—so the birds will migrate."

I hate to reiterate, but maybe someone new will be enlightened. It is not up to us to decide when birds should migrate. It is yet again man's audacity to assume he knows that. Birds migrate for and by many means that man does not even understand yet. The source of food is not going to stop a bird from migrating but it may aid his journey. So do not take your feeders down. Old myths die slow deaths and I for one will be thrilled to see the demise of this one. Want to help? Pass it along.

No reports of American Goldfinches just yet? That's another big bird question this time of the year.

If you see anything great, let me know. We can pass it along, or if it's really great we can put it on the hotline.

With the weather changes this time of the year, we can get some stunning looks at some all-time favorites. Eighteen species of Warblers were seen between Logtown locations and the infamous Waveland Lagoon.

Get out. Look, listen, and enjoy.

A Rufus Hummingbird? A Black-chinned Hummer? Maybe another Buff-bellied? Or better yet, a new species for Mississippi? Let's wish big! An Anna's is conceivable! I'd bet an Allen's Hummingbird has often gone unnoticed or reported somewhere along the Coast. Maybe this year we'll get them. Maybe my yard? Who knows?

deceptively quiet perks up with closer perusal. I run for the binoculars hoping to catch a better glimpse of the bird whose sound I know is coming from "one of those Vireos."

It is most accommodating. A Yellow-throated Vireo.

My first Cat Bird for the fall is bouncing about on the ground looking for an insect. I wish for more time. It's

Undefeated Rocks face challenge by Picayune

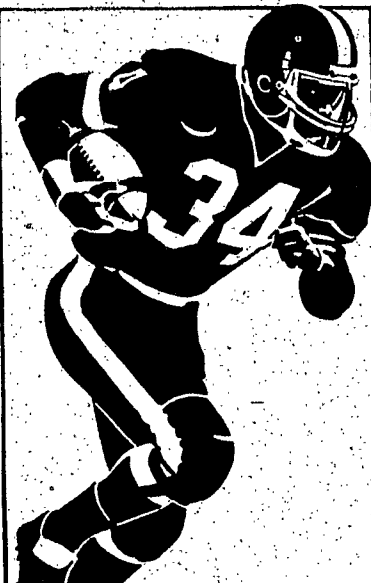

BY ELLIS CUEVAS

The St. Stanislaus Rock-A-Chaws will be trying to maintain a perfect record as they play host to Picayune's Maroon Tide Friday night.

Off to one of its best starts in many years, 4-0 overall and 2-0 in conference, Stanislaus will be going up against a team which has been playing 5-A competition for many years.

This will be the first high school football competition between Picayune and St. Stanislaus in many years, with the Maroon Tide and Rock-A-Chaws now in the same class and conference.

Ken Lyons, SSC head coach, regarding preparation for the game said, "Picayune is tough; they have a lot of speed. The quarterback they used Friday (against Ocean Springs), can really throw deep."

"Picayune is much larger in size than the Rock-A-Chaws, and we feel it will be a competitive game and we will be ready," Lyons added.

Nathaniel Fairconnetue, Picayune's head coach, is a native of Bay St. Louis, and a 1970 graduate of Bay High. He attended Pearl River for two years and was graduated with a bachelor's degree from Delta State in 1974.

In sizing up Stanislaus, Fairconnetue said, "Stanislaus is a scrappy bunch and rated 12 in the state. They will get after you. We are trying to get things back together for the game against SSC."

"Last Friday against Ocean Springs, we were in control until the last four minutes of the second quarter, when they rolled up a quick 14 points."

"We have a young team and make some mistakes. We are using a freshman quarterback, yet he has been steady throughout it all. He is doing well, even the games against Ocean Springs and Slidell. (Picayune's starting quarterback has been sidelined due to mononucleosis since the first game of the season.)"

"Slidell is one of the top ten rated Louisiana high school football teams, while Ocean Springs has been one of the top Coastal Class 5-A teams for

Tigers get tougher; look for a win against Purvis

BY RANDY PONDER

"We are still in the thick of the hunt for a district playoff spot. But we must get healthy this week and play a good game at home against a struggling Purvis squad," Bay High football coach Rocky Gaudin commented.

After losing to East Marion 27-0 last week, the Tigers are 1-3 on the year and 1-1 in district play.

The Tigers were unable to stop the Eagles' running game. "We went into that contest missing three starters and by the third quarter had lost four more," Gaudin explained.

The missing starters were Brennan Compretta, Keith Corr, and Scott Asher. Injured in the game were Adrian Whavers, Marcel Whavers, Jeff Hopgood and Gerrit Carver. All except Corr are expected to be ready for Purvis Friday night.

Sam Shepard was named offensive player of the week for Bay High. The sophomore quarterback was seven of 15 passing for 189 yards.

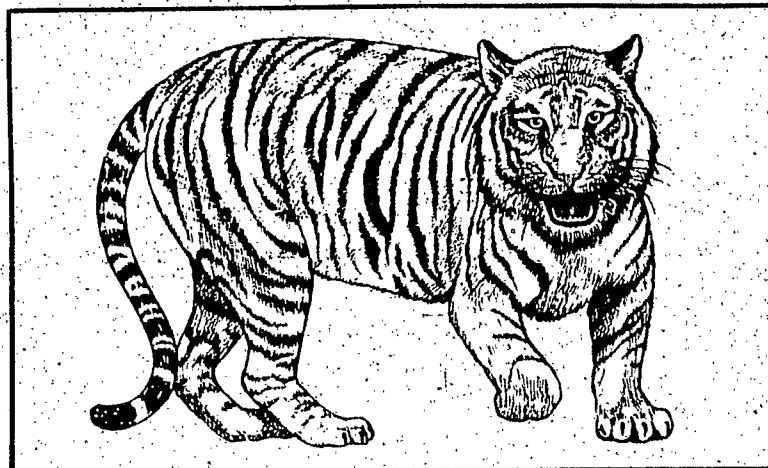

Tackle Jeff Hopgood is the defensive player of the week with four solo tackles and four assists. He also is credited with causing two fumbles.

Gaudin said Chad Staham, Trellis Haynes, Floyd Lewis and Marcel Whavers all played a good, solid game on offense. Jimmy Strong, Kris Barlow, Gerrit Carver and Jamie Kingston were singled out for their defensive efforts.

"We knew the first four games would be very tough for such a young team. This stiff competition has helped us to mature quickly. As we enter the heart of our district play, we look forward to much more success," Gaudin stated.

Tigers lose two to D'Iberville

BY TRACI BONNEY

Both the 7th/8th grade and the 9th grade Bay St. Louis Tigers lost to D'Iberville squads in away games last Thursday.

Coach Rocky Gaudin said of the 32-6 7th/8th grade game, "The Tigers were defeated by a very strong D'Iberville squad. The undefeated Warriors led only 14-6 at the half, but wore down the smaller Tiger squad in the second half."

"The Tigers' only TD came on a 60-yard run by Wali Shabazz, who had a second touchdown pass recalled in the second quarter."

The 7th/8th grade team is 2-2 overall and 2-0 for the conference.

The 9th grade team lost 22-8. Gaudin said, "The team played a hard football game in the matchup of the two undefeated teams. The Tiger TD came on a 6-yard run by LeRoy Hawkins, and Brad Laneaux made the successful 2-point attempt."

"The defense was led by Hawkins, Laneaux and Yancey Mayfield."

"The 15-man squad continues to battle a lot of adversity."

The 9th grade team is 3-1 overall and 2-0 for the conference.

Bay Jr. High Player of the Week

Ninth grader Yancey Mayfield was chosen Jr. High Player of the Week by the Bay High Athletic Club for the week of September 23-27. Playing tackle and defensive lineman, Mayfield has had very solid play both ways, said coach Rocky Gaudin. Bay High Athletic Club Junior High Player of the Week awards are sponsored by John McDonald Realty.

Favre: HHS looks forward to an exciting, hard-nosed game Friday

BY JACQUI COCHRAN

The Hancock Hawks play their second district game tomorrow as they face off from the D'Iberville Warriors on their own home turf.

Hancock High School Coach Irvin Favre in anticipation of a tight game stated, "D'Iberville has always been known as a big power."

"Prior to the last two years, during which we held district championship, D'Iberville won district for seven years."

"Right now, their defense gives up an average of 13 points per game and their offense scores an average of 28 points per game."

Favre commented that Hancock is ready for Friday's game as his players have been playing pretty good.

"Our defense must come out and first off contain two of D'Iberville's senior players. Quarterback Mathew Gough and running back Fuji Delahoussaye.

"Both of these players have been big people for them, for the past two years. They have to be stopped."

How Hancock will contain D'Iberville, Favre related, is through continuing to play the same as they have been.

"Offensively we will need to continue moving the ball."

"So far we have done a pretty good job at doing that."

"Now, we must keep up a good offensive game."

"Defensively we are a pretty good team."

"Our defensive scheme is to build around Gough and Delahoussaye and put a stop on those two people."

"This is a very important game for both of us. It is D'Iberville's first district game and our second."

"We are going to have to have some really good team effort Friday."

Favre asked that the fans turn out in support of the team, claiming the cheers of the crowd to be the best energy booster imaginable.

"We need all their support," he added.

Hancock and D'Iberville will kick off at the Hawk's stadium tomorrow at 7:30 p.m.

HHS Juniors play tonight

Hancock Junior High School football teams play in D'Iberville today against the Warriors. Games are scheduled for 5:30 and 7 p.m.

The seventh and eighth grade team presently stands 3-1 for the season, 2-0 for the conference, and 3-0 in the district, while the ninth grade team stands 1-2 for the season, 1-1 for the conference, and 0-1 in the district.

Bay High Players of Week

Sam Shepard, #11, 5'6", sophomore quarterback, was named the Bay High Athletic Club Offensive Player of the Week. His passing game was 7 for 15 for 189 yards of offense against East Marion. Tackle/defensive lineman Jeff Hopgood, #75, was named Defensive Player of the Week. The 6'5" 232-pound sophomore had four solo tackles and four assists in last Friday's game, in addition to causing two fumbles. Both players were honored previously, and continue to be assets to the Tiger team, said coach Rocky Gaudin. Bay High Athletic Club Player of the Week awards are sponsored by John McDonald Realty. Take some cat food on your shrimping trip

FISHIN' Y'ALL

By Jim Maness

It's time to go fishin' y'all. I thought that I had heard just about the tallest of the tall tales when it comes to fish stories. But, low and behold, up pops a new one. Bordages Fish Camp has trained live shrimp. That's right, trained live shrimp.

The incredible part of all this is that it has a semblance of truth. Every day at shrimp supper time the shrimp put on a dance. They bob and weave, dose-e-do, alemand left and right and all of that good stuff. Tommy Bordages says that he had a few that would do aerial flips and had a limited vocabulary, but they went on to better assignments such as calling and catching only the best of fish.

Now live shrimp training requires only the best and most expensive of rewards to be used as treats; you know, the old psychological ploy of a treat for a trick; so the premium cat food called Cozy Alley Kitten, or something like that, is the treat. Tommy calls his shrimp to perform once a day. He does not charge admission so you might want to bring the whole neighborhood to enjoy the performance.

On the serious side, this feeding demonstration emphatically shows that shrimp are attracted to smell. So, those folks that are casting their nets for shrimp along the sea wall might want to try to use an item like inexpensive cat food. You might want to remember that it is usually not necessary to dump in the contents of the entire can at one time. A few teaspoons every ten minutes or so will usually be enough to attract the shrimp if they are in the area.

The reports I am getting indicate that the shrimp are in the area.

One report came from the marina around Henderson Point where a lady caught about 40 pounds of shrimp last week. They were white shrimp, and they went about 20-25 count. A few other accounts are coming in about some shrimp being caught along the seawall at night on a high tide or incoming tide. The catches have been running between none and a five gallon bucket full of shrimp.

The fishing report is fair to improving.

The cooler weather is bringing in some legal size fish finally.

The most activity for the area for the past week was bank fishing off the end of Pleasure Street where it meets Bayou Caddy.

One day I counted 27 people in this location, and they were all catching fish. I found it significant that there were large numbers of white trout being caught. I had almost given up on the white trout, but nature came through once again. Quite a few legal size specks were caught in this location very early in the morning.

The most successful speck fishermen were using live shrimp about 3 feet under a cork.

The most successful white trout and flounder fishermen were using shrimp, live or dead, on the bottom.

Most bottom fishermen were positioning their hook about 6 inches above their sinker.

I had a long talk with commercial fishermen this past week. It seems that they have serious doubts about the so-called "conservation practices" of the current administration of BMR.

One of the concerns of the commercial fishermen I talked to is the great number of undersize oysters that are currently in the reefs. The ones I talked to felt that to open the reefs to harvest would kill 80 percent or more of the undersize oysters. Better research is needed to ensure the future of saltwater fishing in our state.

The commercial fishermen are very concerned that BMR mismanagement is destroying more of the resources than they are saving.

After all, the commercial fisherman depends for his livelihood on the continuing availability of harvestable resources every year.

Sportfishermen are not alone in their questioning of management of BMR. It looks like all user groups are questioning the arrogance and alleged mismanagement of BMR.

This week's wonderful wise words: Green men now have a green female with flashing blue lights, and the terror has just begun in the twilight zone.

How about them Saints, turtle?

Snapper quotas reduced, commercial season closed

A reduced Total Allowable Catch (TAC) of 4 million pounds for Gulf red snapper was approved by the Secretary of Commerce as recommended by the Gulf of Mexico Fishery Management Council under the Gulf Reef Fish Management Plan.

This represents a 22 percent reduction from the 1990 TAC of 5.1 million pounds.

The commercial quota decreased from 3.1 to 2.05 million pounds.

Because landing statistics indicated that the 2.04 million pound quota was met, the commercial fishery in federal waters closed on August 24, 1991 and will reopen on Jan. 1, 1992.

The recreational bag limit remains at seven fish per person. These fish must be at least 13 inches long.

Archery season for deer opened Oct. 1

One of Mississippi's most awaited hunting seasons got under way Oct. 1 as bowhunters took to the woods deer hunting.

The archery season extends through Nov. 22.

One of the most eagerly awaited of the fall hunting periods, archery season will see more than 60,000 hunters across the Magnolia State pursue whitetail deer.

Last year, more than 25,000 deer were harvested by bowhunters. The bag limit is one buck with antlers visible above the natural hairline per day, not to exceed five per license year.

The bag limit on antlerless deer is one per day, but not more than three per license year.

Archery hunting hours are one-half hour before sunrise until one-half after sunset.

Hunters must have a valid archery/primitive weapons permit and a hunting license signed and on their person before going afield.

More hunting seasons open

Squirrel hunting gets under way Oct. 12 in Zone II and continues through Jan. 31.

Zone II is that area between Mississippi 82 and Mississippi 84, plus portions of the state south of Mississippi 84 and west of I-55.

The bag limit is 8 squirrels daily. The possession limit is 16. A possession limit is not permitted on the opening day of any season.

Meanwhile, Oct. 12 also is the opening day for rabbit, rail and gallinule.

The Department of Wildlife, Fisheries and Parks expects more than 90,000 rabbit hunters to take to the fields when the season opens. The season will continue through Feb. 28.

The daily bag limit on rabbit is 8 and the possession limit is 16.

Mississippi's second statewide dove season also opens Oct. 12 and will end Nov. 6.

The daily bag limit is 15 and the possession limit is 30.

Shooting hours for dove hunters are one-half hour before sunrise until sunset.

Department of Wildlife, Fisheries and Parks figures indicate that hunters harvest between 2 and 3 million doves annually.

The season on gallinules and king, clapper, sora and Virginia rails opens Oct. 12 and closes Dec. 20.

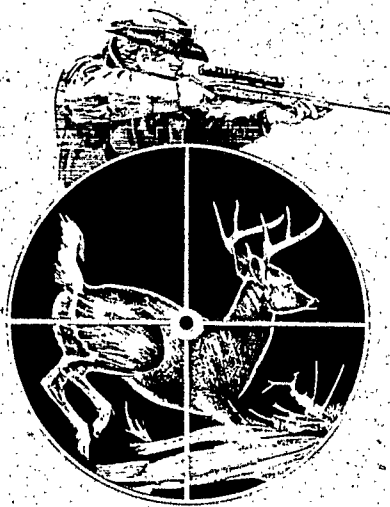

The daily limit on gallinules is 15 and the possession limit is 30. For king and clapper rails, the daily limit is 15 of either species or in any combination, and the possession limit is 30. For sora and Virginia rails, the daily limit and possession limit is 25 of either species or in any combination.

Conservation officers remind hunters that migratory birds are protected by state and federal laws. Hunters must have their shotguns plugged and incapable of holding more than three shells.

Of course, hunter must have a valid hunting license signed and on their person before going afield.

4-H Shooting Club offered for youths

The Hancock Shooting Sports Club is being organized for local youths ages 17 and under. Prospective members must belong to a Hancock County 4-H, and have successfully completed the Mississippi Hunter Education course.

Monthly club matches are required, so that teams can be selected by elimination of lower shooting scores. Members may also compete on an individual basis.

Teams will consist of five shooters. There will be one senior team (ages 15-17) and one junior team (under 14).

The following equipment is required and must fall within the guidelines of the NRA Youth Championship Program:

Archery equipment, 45 caliber or 50 caliber muzzle loader, 22 caliber LR rifle, 20 gauge or 12 gauge shotgun. (capable of holding two or more shot shells at one time); ear and eye protection and ammunition for the above firearms.

Membership in the shooting club is free, but does not include the cost of books and materials to take the NRA's basic rifle, shotgun and muzzle loader courses. A 4-H initiation fee of $20 is charged.

Members will be eligible to shoot in the DCM junior matches at Stennis Space Center Gun and Archery Club.

The Hancock Shooting Sports Club will compete against other clubs at local, district and state levels. The state will select teams to go to the NRA Youth Championships.

Competition is based on material learned from hunter education courses. It consists of a compass reading course, wildlife identification and habitat, tracking wildlife and a written test.

Shooting competition consists of archery, muzzle loader, shotgun and rifle skills.

This will be Picayune's first conference game as a Class 4-A competitor, so it means a lot to the team, Fairconnetue indicated.

"Since my team will be playing against a team from my hometown, this should also show some extra interest, and I know it is going to take some extra effort to stay with them (Stanislaus)," Fairconnetue said.

As an additional point of interest, St. Stanislaus athletic director Jerry Spell hails from Picayune.

Lyons stated, "The best thing for us to do is not to think about the 4-0 record, just think and concentrate on our next opponent, Picayune."

The first four games of the season have caused a number of bruises for Stanislaus.

Both Lyons and Fairconnetue said last week's respective performances were very good at certain times, but did not carry on throughout the entire game.

Local high schools scout their upcoming opponents and also swap tapes of their previous games each week.

Lyons reported he was working on improving his passing game this week, in preparation for the Maroon Tide.

Kick-off will be at 7:30 p.m. at Rock-A-Chaw stadium, with both team head coaches expecting a large turnout of supporters.

USM, NASA to document SSC history

The University of Southern Mississippi recently signed a formal agreement with NASA to provide academic support under the Mississippi Research Consortium for a comprehensive history of Stennis Space Center.

USM's participation will consist of archival and editorial assistance, oral history interviews and support for archival processing. The program will be under the direction of Mack Herring, NASA historian at Stennis with technical guidance from SSC archivist, Paulette Baham.

Under the agreement, work will be performed for one year with an option for renewal of an additional year. Research will be done at SSC, on the USM campus and at various sites of significant historical importance throughout the area. USM will provide student assistants to support the SSC

Delchamps offers 'Cash Back for Schools'

Delchamps Inc. announced a new program beginning Oct. 6 called Cash Back for Schools. The program allows participating schools to collect Delchamps receipts issued beginning Oct. 6 and redeem them for 1 percent in cash back to use for the school.

There is no limit on the amount of money each participating school can raise, and the money can be used in any way the school decides.

October 6, 1991, through Feb. 28, 1992, schools can collect Delchamps receipts. Once a school has collected at least $50,000 in receipts, they can turn them in to any Delchamps store manager and a check for 1 percent of the total receipts collected will be issued back to the school.

Beginning Oct. 6, all Delchamps receipts will be a distinctive green color to make collection even easier. At the end of the program (Feb. 28, 1992), any amount of receipts may be redeemed for cash.

Even though $50,000 in receipts may sound like a lot to collect, it's really not. Consider this example: A school has 1,000 students. If 1,000 families spend $50 per week for 10 weeks on groceries at Delchamps, that school would raise $500,000 in Delchamps receipts or $5,000 cash for the school; and, that's only halfway into the program. If the same 1,000 families continued to spend $50 each week over the second half of Cash Back For Schools, the school would raise $10,000 by the end of the program.

A packet of information detailing the Cash Back For Schools program will be mailed to over 2,000 private, public and parochial school principals across Delchamps operating area in early October.
